"BACK TO THE FUTURE"

Garo Tertzakian, M.D. and Stephen Williams, M.D. will present current status and information on cryotherapy, which uses extremely cold, inert gases as therapeutic agents for prostate cancer treatment.

The cold gas is used to destroy tumor cells on contact. They will offer a brief history of cryotherapy from its' rudimentary beginnings to the present high tech capabilities.

They will discuss the criteria for qualifying patients who could benefit from these techniques, and the outcomes which can be expected. They will explain the process details for both focal and total treatment and provide a look at the new ideas or tools soon to be available.

Dr. Tertzakian and Dr. Williams are urologists and surgeons at the Associated Urologists of Orange County
